Welcome

Dear Colleague,

Ahead of the Curve: That's how we started, that's what we are, and that's our strong imperative for the future.

As I peruse all the titles in this catalog, I am so proud of the contribution they make not only to the literature, but to the advancement of the fields they serve. I am someone who is firmly rooted in the present and the future, so it has been exciting and gratifying to think not only about recently debuted publications, but about the ones that were established in the early years, such as Journal of Interferon & Cytokine Research and DNA and Cell Biology.

In a presentation I recently made to our company, I also spoke in depth about Genetic Engineering & Biotechnology News (GEN); it was the first publication to address this then-fledgling industry, and we were universally acknowledged as The Biotechnology Publisher. Nearly 40 years later, GEN is still the voice of the industry, and we are still renowned as The Biotechnology Publisher. Our publications also embrace regenerative medicine, from the time the term was coined, and advances in this field are well represented in our journals.

Ahead of the curve, we launched The CRISPR Journal in 2018, a journal focused on a technology that will have incredible impact on the advancement of biomedical research. New for 2019 are Bioelectricity and Autism in Adulthood.

In addition to our prestigious publications, we take on important issues, and in 2007 I launched The Rosalind Franklin Society with the mission of ensuring more tenure-track positions in academia for women in the life sciences and more nominations and prizes for women whose accomplishments must be acknowledged. Our founding board has five Nobel laureates, both men and women.

This year, our journal Healthcare Transformation will focus on artificial intelligence, automation, and robotics, which will have enormous impact of the delivery of healthcare in both on-site and in remote environments.

Do browse through these pages and add publications to your collections; our publications are firsts in their fields and their content is exemplary. I must admit how proud and how fortunate I am to work with such talented men and women whose work will improve and change our lives.

And I hope you'll agree:

There is a Mary Ann Liebert at Mary Ann Liebert, Inc. And that makes a difference.
